Aim and approach

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of giving Scottish courts the power to sentence the worst criminals to custody for the rest of their lives?

Fully supportive

Please explain the reasons for your response.

I feel our prison sentences for the worst of the worst is not a deterrent.

Q2. How would introducing Whole Life Custody Sentences affect your level of confidence in the Scottish justice system?

Significantly more confident in the justice system

Please explain the reasons for your response

The most dangerous people would be in prison, it could deter others from following the same path.

Q3. Which types of murder should have a Whole Life Custody Sentence as the starting point for sentencing? (Choose all that apply)

The murder of two or more persons, where each murder involves any of (1) a substantial degree of premeditation or planning, (2) the abduction of the victim, or (3) sexual or sadistic conduct

The murder of a child if involving the abduction of the child or sexual or sadistic motivation

The murder of a police or prison officer in the course of their duty

Q3. Which types of murder should have a Whole Life Custody Sentence as the starting point for sentencing? (Choose all that apply)

A murder carried out for the purpose of advancing a political, religious, racial or ideological cause

A murder by an offender previously convicted of murder

Please explain the reasons for your response

My empathise are with the family of the bereaved. Plus I sorta agree a life for a life.

Q4. Which sexual offences should have a Whole Life Custody Sentence as the starting point for sentencing? (Choose all that apply)

Rape of two or more persons

Rape of a young child

Sexual assault on a young child by penetration

Causing a young child to participate in a sexual activity

Please explain the reasons for this response.

Again I feel for the victims, their life's have been ruined, so a life sentence is justified.

Q5. Are there any other types of offence (other than murder or certain sexual offences) which should attract a Whole Life Custody Sentence as a 'starting point' for sentencing?

No- only murder and certain sexual offences should attract a Whole Life Custody Sentence

Please explain the reason for your response.

If you destroy a life, then you forfeit your freedom.

Q6. Which of the following best expresses your view on whether whole life custody should be a sentencing option for younger offenders?

Whole life custody should be an option for any adult offender (aged 16 or over) or for children over the age of criminal responsibility (at the time the offence was committed)

Please explain the reasons for your response.

I would feel safer, it would be a safer environment for my family. In the past people have gotten out of prison only to reoffend, and that's more hurt on our society.

Financial Implications

Q7. Taking account of both costs and potential savings, what financial impact would you expect the proposed Bill to have? Please explain the reasons for your response.

Will probably cost us, but it would be worth it. Keep them in prison.

Equalities

Q8. What overall impact is the proposed Bill likely to have on equality, taking account of the following protected characteristics (under the Equality Act 2010): age, disability, gender re-assignment, maternity and pregnancy, marriage and civil partnership, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation?

Slightly negative

Please explain the reasons for your response.

Changes will always upset some.

Sustainability

Q9. Do you consider that the proposed Bill can be delivered sustainably, i.e. without having likely future disproportionate economic, social and/or environmental impacts?

Unsure

Please explain the reasons for your response.

Hopefully it would put people off the life of crime.

General

Q10. Do you have any other comments or suggestions on the proposal?

I have one suggestion, maybe instead of jailing these individuals that have committed the most heinous crimes, we bring back the gallows.
